

Indianapolis Public Schools

The John Morton-Finney Center for Educational Services
120 East Walnut Street
Indianapolis, IN 46204

TEL 317-226-4411 • FAX 317-226-4936

Eugene G. White, Ed.D.
Superintendent

February 25, 2013

To Whom It May Concern:

The youth health and fitness programs provided by Nine13sports are unique by design and powerful in the way the students interact with the bicycles and the Nine13sports program instructors. The broad based program messages include being active to gain fitness, to be involved within the community and to support the peers around oneself to achieve ultimate success as a team.

Many great organizations in town provide a variety of programs and initiatives that engage the youth population; yet Nine13sports has stood out from the crowd with their efforts bring their initiative to the Indianapolis Public Schools district in a way that benefited the entire district while finding funding solutions that benefited both The District and Nine13sports.

Nine13sports has made every effort to bring positive programming and role models to our students and have themselves represented upstanding stewards of the community by continuing to find innovative ways to share the much needed messages about youth fitness, obesity prevention and a healthy lifestyle.

Indianapolis Public Schools understands the need for our students to not only gain education within the classroom but to understand a healthy lifestyle is a lifelong effort and starts at a young age. Our district has begun to transform in response to the concept of active education with innovative models such as creating the SUPER School pilot at Fredrick Douglass School #19 and bringing additional SUPER schools to the district over the next five years.

Indianapolis Public Schools relies on excellent and passionate community partners to continue our push for Expanded Learning Opportunities for our students. Nine13sports represents the values and focus that every staff member within our district shares and we can only hope to continue to grow our involvement with Nine13sports well into the future.

Eugene G. White, Ed D.

Superintendent

Indianapolis Public Schools